About This Game

Welcome to SPACETOURS VR, the galaxy's finest agency for interplanetary travel. Our all-inclusive premium package EPI offers unlimited travels to the orbit of the eight planets of the Solar System, where you glide chasing the sun on your personal platform.

Indulge in our fully hipster-style compatible travel pod, taking you to your favoured destinations in the blink of an eye. Our ambition as the galaxies finest travel agency is to provide you with the experiences YOU want to see, so the path of your journey can be shaped by your desires. SPACETOURS VR also offers an -optional- entertainment program at various locations, included in this package.

As companions during your stay, the mechanical pioneers of the respective planets have been fully restored and relaunched. Earth orbit for example offers the largest space station men have ever build, known in history books as the "International Space Station", equipped with several vista spots conveniently accessible from your base platform. In the unlikely event of a troublesome encounter with Deimos, your beam can also be used to call in armed support. Please be aware that SPACETOURS VR does not cover any damage caused by customers on their travels.

So leave the world outside behind and join SPACETOURS VR right now!

Included features of package EPI The Solar System:

- Interactive lobby with amenities
Lights, sound, music and exploding logo. What more can you expect? Ah yes and don't sit on the chairs.
 - Luxurious travel capsule
Your retractable shell offers shelter from the empty space for the light-hearted, and of course - travel in style.
 - Lower Earth Orbit
Check out the first man-made object in space SPUTNIK and see the amazing vista points around the ISS.
 - Mars
Meet MAVEN, one of the top photographers when it comes to Mars. Avoid DEIMOS, the unstable moon of Mars. If you can't, well you read about armed support earlier didn't you?
 - Saturn
Nobody does Saturn like CASSINI-HUYGENS does. For the ultimate dust-ring-sparkle-action, just point your beam at her.
 - Jupiter
Don't miss out on Jupiter with all the moons around. (He's on the right.)
 - Mercury
You thought the Caribbean was the ultimate place to worship the sun? Wait till you've been on mercury! A sunscreen with UV-factor not less than $7e^3$ is highly recommended.
 - Venus
That's not the Venus I know! See what's really under Venus' cloudy cloths - MAGELLAN is the man.
 - Neptune
Wait what?! NEW HORIZONS on Neptune?! Well, where else can you go when your home got revoked planetary status.
 - Uranus
['ju(ə)rənəs] is how it is pronounced.

MENU

Excellent break game, as quick as solitaire but engaging much more of your brain, and deeply satisfying once it all clicks into place. I made a video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kT7bEJOsVYk&feature=youtu.be>. Dynamite Jack is a little top-down action stealth title where you have to avoid guards while placing bombs and collecting items like keycards. However, by adding new enemies and new things like barriers and lasers it gets increasingly more difficult. The graphics are simple, and even though it's a bit of a stealthy game, there is more than enough color to be found in the maps. The sound effects are basic but get the job done. It's an enjoyable game, especially for a price this low, but I don't think it's fun enough for long sessions. Still, like I said, enjoyable.

[Rating: 69/100]. After a few years of its release on the console platform, the game finally reaches Steam.

The cartoon characters in the game stand out one after another, showing and associating their vibrant colors with their themes and dancing styles.

Each venue stands out between each other mostly, with unique effects and fireworks going off at the right time to the songs featured in the game.

Gameplay varies depending on your setup. Of course when it comes to rhythm games, timing is critical. Unfortunately, this game has no sync settings, which means that you may need to calibrate and adjust your graphics and audio settings in some other manner. Often times, I have to hit buttons earlier than hearing from the song in order to score a perfect hit.

Until the game gets more popular on Steam, online multiplayer is still very scarce. Considering its popularity on previous platforms (and more importantly, its age), it's still yet to be determined on whether or not anybody is willing to play online.

If you're a veteran rhythm gamer, you won't have a hard time learning and adapting to the controls and gameplay rules at all. Considering your experiences, you might find the AI in tournament and skirmish battles to be a little too merciful.

Dance Magic is a nice, light, casual game for the rhythm game fanatic that carries the essences of previously well-known titles and creates a slightly distinguishable twist on how it can be played, either alone or against others. But its best you only get it if you find friends who have a common interest.. It is impossible for it to work well, because I can not get it to recognize my TARANIS X9D PLUS station, I have not managed to play yet.. Im new to this game, but this is way better than the first game! I love what they did with this.

Thank you for making this game.. Love this game. It's like Burnout meets Monster Jam. So yeah, it's boosts and monster trucks and buggy's and tons of game modes and honestly it's fun.. Cant get past horrible controls.. A fair game with something for everyone! Very much fun and challenges can be found in Vox.

Be very watchful for these devs and even the publisher in the future. Do your research on their staff (mostly the devs) and be sure to avoid any game that any of them are involved in. They do not respond to emails on their main web page, they have no delivered their last promised game, and they did not even get very far with this current game (that I was looking forward to more than their previous). Even for $10, do not give them the satisfaction of receiving money they do not deserve- I don't even condone torrenting the game, it's [that] bad.

[Edit]

I actually recieved an email explaining the break they took and the fact they want to bring out a meaningful update in January. It seems that SOME small amount of life will be brought back into the game, and they even asked what features we'd like to see. So, keep an eye out, but stay away until something is brought forth.

"You Have a New Message

Photon replied to your message:

Hi Michael,

Thank you for your message and I apologize for the very long delay. The devs were unable to work on the game for a long time as they ran out of funds at the same time they had major life changes to handle, but now are able to work on FFS again. We want to release an impactful update, hopefully in January.

If you are not busy could you please tell us more about the features you'd like to see and why they appeal to you? We are looking at a range of features to implement in the future and it's a huge help when fans give us details like you did.

Best,

The FF Team

This was the email sent to me.. Excellent game, tons of fun, can absolutely recommend it for social game sessions.. TLDR: You don't need to wait for a CD/DVD to arrive, the administrators/devs are respectful and professional, good value and regular updates. You can use any RX/TX converter that shows up in Windows (I have a chinese no-brand one that worked perfectly).

This is only in regards to the airplanes and beginners practice; for helicopters, drones, and advanced maneuvers, please check other reviews.

What could be improved?

- It's missing a (simple/light) 3D scenario with multiple runways and a visible wind indicator to practice "touch and go".
- Scenarios, I'm having a hard time determining the size of objects and the distance to the aircraft(s).
- There are no delta-wings in the simulator.

What else is there to say?

I did a lot of reading before buying this sim, the general opinion is that this is among the top 3 remote-control (RC) simulators. What really sets this apart is that you can buy it and use it straight away, and it's about 1/2 the price of the competitors (of the same quality), no usb-dongle required.

They also actively try to support all (meaningful) input devices.. No idea what people see in this game. Stiffly animated, non-skippable drawn out in-mission cutscenes, cookie cutter mechanics, and a narrative style that might have worked with a bigger budget but, in the low-key form present, looks and sounds offputting. Sorry, but I find it effectively unplayable.. Started a game, Killed by a crocodile.

Started again,

Killed by a Raptor.

I like the immersion and the sounds with a nice pair of headphones you can forget the real world.

probably the only helpful thing in this review is that i recommend the game. Want to pay for Early Access, then get stung by subscription based model to play the decent games post-launch? Go right ahead.

Otherwise. Avoid.

I'm returning mine for a refund.. I don't quite know how to describe why i like this game. The graphics aren't great, i mean the game's enemy looks like Gollum from Lord Of The Ring. The soundtrack is the same simple melody played over and over again too loudly, with no option to turn it down. Enemy's AI is almost laughable. Yet somehow i still had a great time with this game. I think the features some would call lacking, ends up working for the game's better, as it gives the game great simplicity. Bernie's Nightmare doesn't need a big budget to give you the true feelings of fright, stress nor hurry that it does.
Overall, for 0,79 euro, this game is an absolute banger.
8/10 would Recommend.. I just love this game.

There is something really satisfying about playing a small country and buliding it up, then becoming a major power.

Also unlike hearts of iron 3 the game doesn't slow down too badly late game.
